Village Players to Present Thrilling Play June 27, 28

The Mokena Village Players will present their next production, "The Night of January 16th", at the public school auditorium in Mokena Friday and Saturday, June 27 and 28. Rehearsals have already been started, and the names of the entire cast will be submitted to the News-Bulletin next week, as three parts are still to be cast. "The Night of January 16th" is a very gripping trial for murder of a beautiful young woman, and the entire action of the play takes place in a mock courtroom. The jury which gives its verdict at the close of the play, will be drawn by lot from the audience each night of the play.

The Players are happy to report that the beautiful new stage curtain has been hung in the public school auditorium. Its purchase was made possible from the proceeds of the second production of the Players and a donation from the Civic association.

At the last business meeting of the Village Players, it was voted to use the net proceeds of this forthcoming play, "The Night of January 16th" to purchase camping equipment for the Boy and Girl Scouts of this community—Virginia Sherwood president, Mokena Village Players.

$176,700 GIVEN AS ESTIMATE FOR MOKENA IMPROVEMENTS

An important step in the village affairs of Mokena was made last Thursday evening at a special meeting of the board.

At that time H. Warren, a representative of Benjamin and Lang, municipal bonds company of Chicago gave a report of a recent survey made for the village of Mokena of contemplated improvements. It showed that the population of Mokena is 900 and that these improvements represent an indebtedness of $176,700.

To meet part of these costs the village water rates would be more than quadrupled as the present rate of $10 minimum a year would be raised to $42 a year, more if more water is used. This change in the water system would cost the village $13,368 annually for operating costs, bond requirements and reserve funds. This was given as an estimate.

These improvements in question broken down into various items would be something as follows: general obligation bonds which would be necessary to meet the cost of the sewer extensions, $62,000, which must be voted on by the citizens and which must be paid off in 20 years. The cost of this would be met by an increase in the tax rate of about $2.65 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

The itemized estimate for the waterworks, rehabilitation of present system $10,000, new well and pump, $20,000, extension of water main, $44,700; water softener and filter, $40,000; sewer extension on Union street, $35,000 and on Wolf road $27,000. The itemized cost of operating expenses in this suggested improvements would be: power $1,020; salaries, $2,100; maintenance and supplies, $300; chemicals for water softener, $2,200; billing and collecting, $500; bond, requirements, average annual, $6,152; plus 50 percent for depreciation, bond reserve and sinking fund, $3,076.

The board can authorize the water revenue bond for $114,700 by passing an ordinance to that effect and without holding an election; but the voters may compel an election by filing a petition to that effect by a group of voters, not later than 10 days after the publication of the ordinance. Russell Anderson, village trustee, stated that it is the board's desire that it be petitioned to bring this to a vote, even if he would circulate such petitions himself, which in effect would be the board petitioning themselves to hold an election, which is a rare thing to do, if ever it has been done.

In its report the bond company stated that the $6,992 now owing on water main extension contracts must be settled before water revenue bonds may be issued. This is the amount owed to Everett Cooper and a land trust held by the Chicago Title and Trust company, and which has been a subject of discussion by the board when the village attorney Harry Schenk held that these contracts with Mr. Cooper were illegal. It is the balance due Mr. Cooper and the Chicago company for water mains installed at their expense.

The bond company also stated that $2,000 in bonds outstanding, now held by the Mokena State bank, should be paid. Water bonds for this new setup would be issued to be paid off in 40 years.

The company recommends certain provisions to be included in the contemplated ordinance, that is, that water bills overdue a given number of days would carry a penalty of 10 percent extra charge; that water bills overdue 60 to 90 days be recorded with the county office as a lien against the property and that in cases where tenant is delinquent the landlord is responsible for the payment of the water bill.

At the regular board meeting of Mokena Tuesday night a report was made that the daughter of Charles Rose was bitten Sunday by a dog belonging to Mr. Kellogg of Mokena. This is the fourth person that this dog has bitten. Mr. Kellogg stated to village authorities that he would confine the dog for 10 days after which he would have it disposed.

Judge John Balaz turned into the board $73 which he had collected in fines.

Whitney Carter reported he could not accept the office as police officer for Mokena.

The board decided to prefer disorderly conduct charges against those driving without mufflers or with unnecessary noise.

The board plans to advertise for bids for work to be done on village streets, money for same coming from the Motor Fuel Tax fund.

The traffic signs for the village have been received and will be installed by the Street and Alley committee.

The board received a notice of a suit against the village by Florence H. Eakins, 175th and Wolf road, through her attorney James Burke. Mrs. Eakins claims personal injuries received in a fall November 11, 1951 when she slipped in front of 103 Front street, the Boleman Drug store.

The board went on record to audit the books annually and to accept Daylight Saving time. They also gave permission to the Salvation Army to hold a Doughnut Tag day in Mokena June 13.

A letter was received from Robert Hohenstein, village trustee, resigning as such, as it interfered with his own work. Russell Anderson suggested Wendell B. Hamilton to fill this vacancy, which was confirmed by the board. A letter was received from James Fassett accepting the appointment as village trustee to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of John Scarth.

In the discussion on the contemplated water and sewer improvements in Mokena, President Spies stated he would oppose the installing of the water softener and filter because it is not practical for Mokena as the cost and operation of same is exorbitant. Mr. Anderson stated he was in favor of it.

Mrs. Semmler At Newswomen's Nat'l. Convention in Omaha

Over the Memorial Day holidays Mrs. Margaret Semmler attended the convention of the National Federation of Press Women, at the Fontenelle hotel in Omaha.

In reference to the President's seizure of the steel industry and his statement of having power to seize the press, the newswomen cited this as "in violation of Constitutional provisions."

The group pledged itself to "preserve the cherished right of the people... to have a press free from the control of the government in performance of its vital function of gathering and disseminating information as guaranteed by the Constitution."

Included in the schedule of entertainment was a trip to the horse races as guests of Ak-Sar-Ben (the word "Nebraska" spelled backward) which is one of Omaha's most exclusive clubs, and a trip through Boytown, where 900 boys are "given a chance" in a unique and wonderful city covering 1200 acres of land.

The Omaha World-Herald, the only daily newspaper in Omaha treated the visiting press women to a lovely tea.

The convention closed Saturday evening following a banquet, at which time friends of Mrs. Semmler, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gorham, formerly of Mokena, but who now live in Lincoln, met her. Mrs. Semmler spent Saturday night and Sunday with the Gorhams.

During her stay in the Nebraska capital, a tour was made of the city and the university campus, as well as of the capitol building, known to be one of the finest in the country. The party also visited Mr. Gorham's office in the state capitol. He is employed by the state board of education as an industrial supervisor for the state of Nebraska.

Their son Robert, took them on a tour of the beautiful new building which houses the combined newspapers of the Lincoln Journal and Star. Bob is head photographer for the news paper in his department.

Mrs. Gorham (Cora) is a sister of Everett Cooper of Mokena and was one of Mrs. Semmler's former Campfire girls. Mr. Gorham at one time lived in Homer township.

Mrs. Semmler left Lincoln Sunday night and arrived in Mokena Monday morning.

A huge four-day Fourth of July celebration with parades, fireworks, rides, games and entertainment is being planned for Tinley Park and the surrounding area by Tinley Park Post 615 American Legion with the help and cooperation of all of the local organizations. To be held at Memorial Park on July 3, 4, 5 and 6, it fills a long felt need in enabling the residents of the Tinley Park area to celebrate and enjoy this great American holiday locally, without the danger of highway travel or the expense of being away from home. There has not been a community celebration in the village on the Fourth of July for several years, and this one will be well attended.

An excellent fireworks display will take place in the evening of July 4 and there will be various other entertainment. There is to be plenty of parking space with no charge for parking or admission.

Parades are welcome spectacles in the village and there will be two of them. The first will begin at 10:30 a.m. July 4, and a cordial invitation is extended to all neighboring communities to take part. The second, and equally important, will be the "All Children Parade" led by the Tinley Park School band and starting at 2:00 p.m. July 6. Children of all ages are welcome. Both parades will assemble at 175th street and Oak Park avenue, and march north to Memorial Park where they will be reviewed and prizes will be awarded by the judges.

Everyone in the locality who wants to spend a safe, sane and economical Fourth of July holiday is urged to attend the Tinley Park Community Fourth of July celebration at Memorial Park on the 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th of July.

JUNE 13 IS 'DOUGHNUT DAY'

Doughnut Day for the Salvation Army will be observed in this area Friday, June 13.

Permission has been granted by the village boards in Mokena, Frankfort and Tinley Park for the Salvation Army to sell the famous little paper doughnuts, symbol of The Salvation Army's help to the needy and distressed.

The Salvation Army once again demonstrated its ability to help in time of disaster at Judsonia, Ark. They were the first on the job in that city where almost the entire town of 1100 was wiped out. About 2000 meals were served daily for a period of time; clothing, bedding and furniture were distributed to those in need. Six canteens were on the job serving coffee, doughnuts and sandwiches.

In Omaha's flooded area over 500 families were evacuated. Not only were people fed and lodged, but a number of graduate nurses checked on the health of the families. Some 16 canteens were placed in service, serving coffee and sandwiches for the workers up and down the levees and dikes.

In all communities outside Cook county, 20 per cent of the funds raised in the local Doughnut Day drive will remain with the community resident serving as local treasurer for the Salvation Army. These funds will be available in the local communities for health, welfare and cultural purposes, which may include clothing for needy school children; dental, optical and medical aid and family assistance of all kinds.

FISH-EATING BIRDS

by Roberts Mann, Supt. of Conservation, Forest Preserve District of Cook County Man adopted checks and balances as a part of government long after they were part of nature. Since prehistoric times, these complex relationships between the hunters and their prey—between the eaters and those eaten—have gradually developed to check the overabundance of any species. Their absence is unnatural. Nature, let alone, is always orderly. Man, however, is radically changing the face of the earth and by draining and leveling submarginal lands, ploughing the prairies, clear-cutting the forests, and polluting the streams. In his zeal to "manage" and "improve" wildlife populations, he has upset many of those relationships and destroyed many of the natural checks and balances.

Fish, for instance, lay enormous numbers of eggs—thousands or hundreds of thousands. Not all of these hatch and, of those that do, only a few reach maturity. This is good: there can not possibly be room or food for all of them. We see this most strikingly in inland lakes and ponds. A body of water contains just so much oxygen, food and space. If the fish in that water are to benefit from these essentials, reach maturity and keep on growing, there must be no more than a limited number of them. There are only two drumsticks on a turkey.

Injury, disease and other natural causes remove many eggs and young fry but not enough. Other fish eat them and bigger fish may eat those fish. Snapping turtles, water snakes, mammals and, especially, fish-eating birds help remove the surplus and keep the fish population on an even keel. Without sufficient numbers of fish-eating birds and other predators, the fish in a body of water become overcrowded, stunted, thin and not worth the taking. Sportsmen who complain of poor fishing in so many of our inland waters, and wonder why it is not as wonderful as when the white man first came, forget that in those days there were great numbers of fish-eating birds—herons, egrets, bitterns, loons, mergansers and several other species of diving ducks, cormorants, grebes, terns, ospreys, bald eagles, kingfishers, gulls, crows and pelicans.

In the Chicago region, even though we have restored or created many lakes, ponds and marshes in our forest preserves, many of these big birds are uncommon or present only during part of the year. Occasionally we see a stray pelican. A few loons spend some time here on their way to and from the lonely lakes of Canada and also, in spring and fall, a few ospreys and some bald eagles. Cormorants, mergansers, large numbers of bluebills or scups, and some of the other diving fish-eating ducks rest and feed here during their migrations. Bitterns and three kinds of herons—the great blue, the little green, and the black-crowned night herons—are fairly common. In recent years, increasing numbers of American egrets have come up the Mississippi and Illinois valleys in midsummer after their nesting season in the south. Some snowy egrets and little blue herons are beginning to accompany them on these "reverse migrations."

Gulls and crows are scavengers and very numerous at all times. They frequent our garbage dumps. They clean up all the dead fish in our waters, but even the gulls seldom catch a live fish unless it is a cripple or unless a school of small ones is found swimming near the surface. Kingfishers, however, constantly patrol our streams and lakes; swooping down to seize small fish and pursuing them underwater. We need more kingfishers.

These birds are stream bankers that keep checks and balances.

The last meeting of Girl Scout Troop 283 for this season was held May 26. There were 21 present besides two leaders. After Mrs. Bates said goodbye and told us we were good Girl Scouts, we all sat in a circle, some of the girls passed out napkins, lace doilies, gumdrops, toothpicks, marshmallows, and paper baking cups. From these things we made a party favor which represented a garden with three tulips in it. We then had a little party and ate cupcakes which Mrs. Husak made and brought as a surprise. We made our friendship circle, retired the flag and were dismissed at 5:15 p.m.—Karen Perowski, publicity.

It's New! It's News!

Adhesive tape in a package with a cover that cuts the tape! That's news of a kind to gladden the heart of the busy wife and mother who knows what it means to have to conduct a frantic hunt for scissors when a strip of adhesive tape is needed in a hurry to bandage a child's hurt.

When you want a strip of tape you open the cover, pull out the length you need, close the cover, and tear off the tape against the cutting edge. There's no fumbling or scraping to find the end of the tape on the roll, for it sits up on the side of the package, beneath the cutting edge, where it is easy to grasp.

"Cut-Quick" the package is called, and cut-quick it is. It's new. It's news. And it's a real time, step and jitters saver.

30,000 Cattle Saved

United States Air Force officials had a Flying-Boxcar-sized problem on their hands last month when planes were made available to participate in emergency-conceived "Operation Haylift," but a means could not be found to move the urgently needed baled hay into the giant ships.

Learning of the problem, an Elko, Nevada farm equipment dealer came to the rescue with a Farmhand Hydraulic Loader mounted on a tractor. Result was the entire operation turned out highly successful as the loader raised the bales to the 9-foot high plane doorways, and a hydraulic push-off device neatly deposited the bales, 6 at a time, into the interior of the plane. Two men did the job in a quick, efficient manner as seen in the above picture; the flying boxcars took off on schedule; over 74 tons of 80-pound bales were handled in one peak day; and an estimated 30,000 head of beef cattle, valued at six million dollars, were saved from starvation in the worst snow accumulation in 60 years.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

"Good Neighbor Policy"

Remember one time when I told about the old loose-stone wall that separated Easy Roberts' property from Handy Peterson's?

That was when they decided they really didn't need the wall between them in the first place—so they simply stopped repairing it.

Now I hear where a fellow, who bought the old Johnson place, wants to buy all those stones. It seems he figures a stone wall is just what's needed on his property.

From where I sit, if that fellow wants to build himself a stone wall, that's his business. But if it's not really serving any useful purpose he may sooner or later discover—just like Handy and Easy did—that he'd be just as well off without one. Even some old-fashioned walls of prejudice are disappearing—like those that would deny a person's right to a friendly glass of beer now and then. Most Americans are learning that "walls" can get in the way of the persons inside as well as the persons outside.

Persons and Property

Lesson for June 8, 1952

STEALING can be done in more ways than one. The essence of it is keeping some one from having what he should rightfully have, and what he would have if you did the right thing by him. This "some one" may be a railroad company, or it may be yourself. If you pass your little girl off for ten years old when you buy a ticket when she is really twelve, you are stealing from the railroad. If you waste good money while you are making good money, and never learn to save, so that you become a pauper in your old age, then you are stealing from an old man—yourself in fact.

Dr. Foreman

Money Should Be Good for Something Good
JESUS never bothered to tell people stealing is wrong. They know it. As Billy Sunday used to say so often: "When a man starts to tell you that stealing's no sin, don't argue with him. Search him!"
Jesus said a great deal about property, but most of what he said was positive, not negative; about the right use of property, not its abuse. One of his most difficult parables is the one in Luke 16 known as the parable of the "unjust steward."
On first reading it looks as if Jesus, or the rich man in the story, were praising a man for being dishonest. But we know Jesus would not do this. Dr. A. B. Bruce suggests that what Jesus was driving at was something like this: the employer of the "unjust steward" was not praising his dishonesty but his shrewdness in making the most of his opportunities.

We can all admire the smartness or a rascal even while we are condemning his rascality. We can wish that so much smartness were used for a better purpose.
"The children of this world are wiser . . . than the children of light" suggests that good people are not as smart as they ought to be. Jesus goes on to say, "Make friends by means of the mammon of unrighteousness." That is to say, although money in itself is neither good nor bad, and although money is often used for bad ends, it can be used for good purposes.
The real value of money is the good that can be done with it. Money lost by gambling (for instance) does no good; it is picked up by another gambler who will lose it in his turn. Money spent on an education, on the other hand, or sent to support a foreign missionary, is money invested in a brighter future.

The Pocket-Book Nerve

DR. J. G. PATTON says it's very doubtful whether a man is a true Christian unless he dedicates to God not only himself but what he has. It is easy to say to God, "Take my soul," because (as most people suppose) they have no special use for their souls right now; but it is much harder to say, "Take my money," because most people can think of plenty of uses for their money.
And yet it is never possible to give money to God, of course. He has no pockets, he has no bank account, he does not need to buy anything. When we speak of dedicating our possessions to God what we mean is devoting them to the cause and the service and the purposes of God.
The story of Zacchaeus is a case in point. This wealthy (and none too honest) businessman never did say right out, "I believe in Christ," or, "I want to go to heaven," or even, "I repent of my sins." So far as the story goes he was not even baptized.

Yet Jesus—and who should know better than he?—said, "Salvation is come to this house." Long before this Jesus had said, "By their fruits ye shall know them." And what Zacchaeus said he was going to do with his money was a very good sign of his conversion. When a man's pocket-book has been converted, the man usually goes with it!

Stealing in Church

THE STORY of Jesus and the money-changers brings out something else. Right there in the Temple stealing was going on, and respectable people had done nothing to stop it before Jesus came on the scene.
Stealing can still be done in church. When a congregation underpay the minister or the janitor, they are stealing; or if the minister and the janitor are lazy and no-account, they are stealing from the congregation. No one is free from the temptation.

It also recognizes its indebtedness to the men of the University and of the Association who led the way to the establishment of the School." Medemas on Visit
To Muskegon Find
Celery Area Ruined

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Medema left Mokena last Thursday to spend the Memorial Day weekend with Mr. Medema's brother in Muskegon, Mich.

While there, they visited Mr. Medema's niece, whose husband and father own a celery farm of 40 acres.

The celery areas are traversed by Black creek, which is restrained from overflowing by a sand bank buildup. However, the creek broke from its bounds two weeks ago and flooded more than 100 acres of celery land. All the celery in this area which was about six inches high, has been ruined. Damage to this area was estimated at about $100,000.

It was thought the crop could be saved, and for five days after the water broke through they had a great many pumps on the scene, pumping water out of the area back to the creek. However, after the fifth day of effort the situation was regarded as hopeless, and abandoned. The rebuilding of the bank of the creek was begun immediately.

The unusually high water level of Lake Michigan is regarded as the cause of this disaster to the celery lands in the vicinity of Muskegon. Lake Michigan's overflow drains into Mona Lake and Mona Lake into Black creek.
